Time fades enthusiasm for Kanawa

County council votes to donate
only $2,000 to museum
feasibility study

Three years of unresolved negotiations over the fate of the Kanawa Canoe Collection has resulted in waning enthusiasm to a proposal for a museum in Haliburton Village.

"There was no end to the enthusiasm three years ago," Dysart et al Reeve Murray Fearrey commented during the latest round of discussions at last Wednesday's County Council meeting. However, three years have passed and "You've been fidgetting around," Fearrey told David Merrifield, museum director.

Merrifield and two members of the county Historical Society were looking for a contribution "as generous as you can see fit" toward a $50,000 study that would look into the feasibility of locating the collection in the village. Council agreed to grant $2,000 and no more.

Although Council was assured that this would be a world-class attraction for the county, councillors were skeptical. If it is such a great attraction, why has it not gone to Port Hope as originally planned, Fearrey asked. Merrifield did not reply, but the answer is Port Hope was fed up with the delays.

Kanawa board has an 'awful'
track record,
says Chapple

"Basically, the Kanawa Board has had an awful track record for the past 20 years," said the president of the Port Hope Marine Museum Board.

In an interview last Thursday, Brad Chapple said Port Hope is an ideal location for the collection and his board was all in favour of the proposal for bringing the museum to town. However, "after all the hassles we had with the board," the Port Hope group decided to back out of the project.

The Kanawa Board had a "grand vision" of a $7-million facility in Port Hope, said Chapple. His board went so far as to buy a former industrial mall in the centre of town to be converted to a museum. A large part of the collection was also moved to town and is still being stored free of charge, he said.

However, as time passed with no progress being made, Chapple's board abandoned its hopes that anything would ever be resolved.

He said they were losing money on the building and they decided that it had to be sold late last year.

With Port Hope backing out, the ball was volleyed back into Haliburton's court.

"If it moves out of this area, it's going to put someone else on the map," Merrifield warned council while urging it to support the study.

However, this argument did not wash with Stanhope Reeve Harry

The fourth annual running of the Minden Sled Dog Derby was a tremendous success. Mushers from all over Ontario, Quebec, and the United States were in Minden to take part in this highly competitive race. The challenging course has many hills and tricky curves to test the driver and team. For more on the derby see pages 10 and 11.

Ambulance operations questioned

Mail service returns to Tory Hill

Despite the loss of its post office through fire, Tory Hill will not be deprived of its postal service.

Doug Gazely, manager of Field Services for Canada Post, said a temporary mobile unit from Ottawa was being brought in and would be stationed adjacent to the ruins of Finlay's General Store. The store, which had also served as the village's post office, was destroyed in a fire on January 31.

Gazely said the mobile unit will be used as a temporary measure until other accommodations can be found. John Elamad will continue to be the post master, said Gazely.

There should be no fears that the village will lose its postal service because of the fire, said Gazely. As long as Elamad is willing to carry on as post master, service will be provided, he said.

A good deal of mail that was inside the building at the time of the fire was destroyed by flames and water. Gazely said they will be trying to salvage as much as possible, but a lot of it is frozen in the ice left by the tremendous amount of water sprayed at the burning building.

Management of Ontario's ambulance services is in a state of disarray and Anson, Hindon and Minden is no exception, an inquiry was told last Thursday.

With ambulance services falling under five different types of operator, the system is "irrational and incoherent", the independent inquiry funded by the Ontario Public Service Employees' Union was told.

Wednesday's hearing in Orillia was the final in a series of hearings across the province. Inquiry chairman Jack Shapiro, a former chairman of the Toronto Board of Health, received submissions from ambulance and fire personnel, the NDP Health Critic and private citizens during the lengthy hearing at Orillia's Highwayman Inn.

System is 'irrational'

A presentation from the Association of Ontario Ambulance Operators, which represents the management sector of the system had been expected. However, as this final hearing drew to a close, there was still no participation from that association.

Ambulance employees are in a unique situation. Although the funding for their services comes from the Ministry of Health, they are actually employed by one of the five different types of operator. Management of ambulance services varies in each part of the province. Management duties can be handled by the municipality, a private operator, a hospital, volunteers or directly by the ministry.

Bill Davis, an attendant with the Haliburton and District Ambulance Service, relayed some of the local concerns to the inquiry. Until October, this service was managed by Dysart et al Townships. However, for reasons that are still shrouded in mystery, the management duties were shifted over to Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships.

Although the Haliburton District Service is just one of five in Ontario run by a municipality, the concerns expressed by Davis echoed those expressed by ambulance workers from other areas.

Limited opportunity for upgrading, inconsistent policy and small-town politics were cited as three of the problems now being faced.

Davis told the inquiry that employees have very little knowledge of upgrading courses that are available "because

Anglers may be interviewed for Ministry creel surveys

The new year has finally arrived and with it comes the excitement of ice fishing for thousands of anglers, fishing for trout, whitefish, walleye and perch in the district.

Don White, Minden District Manager for the Ministry of Natural Resources, reminds anglers to get their 1988 fishing licences before heading out. He also notes that angling is closed on Drag Lake again this winter until May 20.

Anglers may be interviewed by Conservation Officers or Fisheries technicians carrying out creel surveys this winter.

The Creel Survey is conducted to obtain angler effort, harvest and use information as well as provide fish population assessment information including species, age, length and weight data. The Creel Survey results provide a basis to develop future lake specific fisheries management programs such as fish stocking and spawning shoal rehabilitation.

Creel Surveys will be conducted on the following 20 lakes this winter: Boshkung, Maple, Beech, Mountain, Horse-shoe, Miskwabi, Loon (Dudman), Esson, MacDonald, Clear, Little Clear, Eyre, Big and Little Redstone, Kennis-is, Kelly, Havelock, Johnson, Gull and Kosh-long.

White said Koshlong and Twelve Mile lakes have tagged lake trout, and requests that successful anglers return these tags to the District office with pertinent weight and length information.

Anglers throughout the district are encouraged to complete volunteer creel books, which are available at the district office and provide an extremely cost effective way of assessing the status of the sports fishery over a wide range of lakes.

Fish stocking lists for 1987 are available at the Minden District office. Please drop in or call write for a copy.

The Resident Sports Fishing Licence has now been in place for one complete year. Over the past season many valuable fisheries management projects have been carried out within the district, funded by the angling licence dollars. These include:

- rehabilitation of;

Drag River walleye spawning shoal, and Koshlong and Kashagawigamog lake trout spawning shoals
- stocking of 10,400 catchable rainbow trout
- improving angler access to two lakes
- completing fish stocking assessment on over 40

lakes
- carrying out special lake trout enforcement projects
- introducing largemouth bass into three new lakes
- conducting winter creel surveys
- producing the Minden District Fishing Map and booklet for public use.

Cleaning up Mink Creek, Potash Lake

A $30,175 grant for the township of Bicroft for the Cardiff Townsite under the new LifeLines infrastructure renewal program should ultimately improve water quality in Mink Creek and Potash Lake, Environment Minister Jim Bradley and Hon. John Eakins, MPP for Victoria-Haliburton announced.

The province is funding 85 per cent of the estimated $35,500 total cost of studies to identify deficiencies in the existing sewage collection and water distribution systems. Eligible corrective work will receive 33 per cent provincial funding under the new LifeLines program.

"We are taking concrete steps to improve water quality in our waterways and our beaches. I am pleased that the township of Bicroft has taken advantage of our cost sharing program," Mr. Bradley said.

This year's allocation for the needs studies is $27,157 with the rest to follow as required. The province will spend $330 million on the LifeLines program over the next decade, prompting $1-billion of remedial work.

Kanawa given 'thin support'

Davis. "We've had it for 20 years and it sure hasn't put us on the map." The collection has been housed in a log building north of Carnarvon, where it has enjoyed little attention and less publicity.

Both Davis and former Stanhope Reeve Sinc Nesbitt said the Kanawa Board has been given all sorts of tax breaks over the years. At the same time, the museum did not even go to the trouble of putting a sign on the highway to let people know it was there. Davis said the township eventually put up the sign at a cost of $500.

Davis was also skeptical of a claim that the collection's owner Kirk Whipper wants to keep it in the county. Davis said he once heard Whipper comment on CBC radio that he has always wanted it to go to North Bay.

The feasibility study being proposed is expected to cost about $50,000, with the province picking up 75 per cent of the tab. It was hoped that the remaining $12,500 would be split between the county and yet-to-be-confirmed corporate sponsors. Commenting on a proposal that the county donate $2,500 to the cause, Ross Carver of the Haliburton Society said it would be "thin support." He felt this would be viewed as "minimal contribution" by government ministries and might affect the museum's ability to obtain grants.

In a split vote, council passes a resolution to grant $2,000 toward the study. A motion to increase the donation to $2,500 was handily defeated. The $2,000 grant will not be paid out until the remaining $10,500 has been raised, and the resolution specified that the county does not assure any further funding.

The possibility of the county being locked into providing continuing support for a museum was one of the concerns expressed by Fearrey. He asked for confirmation that this would be the end of the county's financial involvement in the museum.

However, Merrifield

would give no guarantees. Although he said the museum would be self supporting, "I would hope that the county's commitment would be ongoing."

This was also a sore spot with Nesbitt, who wanted confirmation on a number of unanswered questions. "Somewhere along the line ... who's to say it won't go to Harbourfront?" he asked. "There has to be guarantees."

Ambulance crews have 2 employers only bulletins which we were intended to see were posted." The only way the employees find out about these courses is if they see the notices posted at other ambulance stations.

Inconsistencies in policies is another problem faced because there is, in effect, two employers. He drew Shapiro's attention to the policy regarding the speed at which an ambulance can travel under a Code 3 Alert. According to a bulletin posted by the municipality, the drivers are allowed to speed when driving to this level of call. However, the ministry policy indicates that they cannot speed.

Davis briefly touched on an issue that is unique to the handful of services being operated by a municipality: coping with the added burden of small-town politics.

In his submission, Davis said municipally run services have to accept the politics being employed in power struggles within the municipalities. Locally, he said the ambulance employees are being pitted against other municipal employees in their bid to join OPSEU.

"To this I would like to elaborate further," Davis wrote in his submission. "As I mentioned earlier, our service was taken over on an interim basis by another municipality and because we did not know exactly where we stood or who would be our employer, we decided to unionize. Our interim employer, Anson, Hindon and Minden, has told the Ontario Labour Relations Board that if the union is going to represent some employees, then it should represent all employees."

Initially, the two ambulance services being run by the municipality were the only groups seeking to join the union. However, the municipality's application to the Labour Relations Board could mean that a majority of all the township employees would be necessary.

A meeting of all Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships employees was held last Wednesday to discuss the topic of joining OPSEU. If there is enough support, all municipal employees will be included in the union.

In his conclusion, Davis urged the Minister of Health to upgrade the Ambulance Services Branch by making the health care personnel in the province equal in monetary areas, policy areas and dress code.

"A first step would be not to allow small town politics to enter into the health care system," he said. He also urged the ministry to avoid private controls "that may be less expensive in some areas but would be so at the expense of the elderly, sick and traumatized people of this province."

"It is obvious to me and my counterparts that health care is the number one priority," said Davis. "To let the system regress would be negligent, and to allow some services to be private, some municipal, some ministry, with variations of controls, regulations and policy, is not a step forward."

A good bet

Haliburton County Council was hedging its bets last Wednesday when, in a split vote, it decided to provide $2,000 for a proposed feasibility study for the Kanawa Canoe Museum.

Continued delays in settling the fate of the museum have caused at least one other municipality to withdraw its support for bringing the outstanding collection of canoes to their community. Now, with nowhere else to go, it appears Haliburton County is being given an opportunity to accept the collection.

However, there are still many questions that would have to be cleared up before the County should be willing to sink any substantial amounts of money into it.

For example: who will own the Haliburton Village museum building if it is indeed built? Who will own the collection, and what guarantees are there that it will not be shuffled out of the county in a few years? Why is it that it was going to cost $7-million to house the collection in Port Perry when the estimates for here are only $1-million. Is the present owner of the collection serious about selling it for one dollar. And, of course, will the county be saddled with ongoing support payments should the museum prove to be a white elephant?

Until these questions are answered, County Council is right to avoid making any large investments. On the other hand, the County can not ignore the possibility that this may become a major attraction.

Although council obviously disagrees with our argument that this should be a matter for Dysart et al Townships to deal with rather than a County matter, it was encouraging to see Wednesday's level-headed response to the request funding.

With its $2,000 grant, council is demonstrating that it does support the project. And if the museum proposal fizzles out, we have lost only a small chunk of money.

Joining with the U.S.

I want to be a Canadian, but if Canada adopts the free trade deal that has been negotiated by our federal government, we have two time frames to look at when deciding when to become part of the United States. One is to drag it out to the last dying moment and the other is to join up right now.

There can be little doubt that we shall amalgamate with the U.S. once free trade is in place. During the phase-in years of the agreement, existing plants will be aging. When it comes time to re-model or to build new factories, those American plants will not be doing it in Canada. That is when it will be cheaper to build in the U.S. where the cost of building materials and often labour is less than Canada. Without any tariffs to meet, the American plants can ship their finished products here to the smaller market.

Since Ontario has the most industry in Canada, Ontario will be the province to be hurt the most economically. There will be no recovery for Ontario or Canada once the industry has gone. With a high degree of industry eliminated, this country will be reduced to what it once was, a supplier of raw materials.

We shall have given up control of our raw materials with free trade too. The deal requires that we not put restrictions on the sale of energy products. No special price for oil or natural gas for the Canadian market, for example, shall be allowed.

Centre is needed

Editor:

As a result of the controversy over the proposed Women's Health Care Centre at Peterborough Civic Hospital, we have formed the Victoria County Women's Action Committee. Our members have one thing in common: a conviction that a Women's Health Care Centre would provide benefits for women throughout this region - benefits too valuable to risk losing through lack of vocal support.

Among the benefits offered by the proposed Centre would be the consolidation of services presently dispersed throughout the region, specifically, family-centred maternity care, colposcopy, mammography, ultrasound, birth control counselling, the care of victims of sexual assault, nutrition clinics,

CARNIVAL

A Princely visitor

by Arthur Black

There are more things in heaven and earth,
Horatio, Than are dreamt of in your philosophy.
Hamlet I, v

Indeed there are Horatio. Weird, whacky and wonderful things - and not all of them occur after sundown on gloomy battlements in Denmark, either. As a matter of fact, a disproportionate percentage of oddball happenings seem to occur on the other side of that five thousand mile long, rickety picket fence that separates us from the Excited States of America, Land of the Crave and Home of The Freaky.

There was for instance, the case of the house burglary that occurred in Gilroy, California recently. A young bachelor came home, discovered the front door to his apartment was ajar, fearfully crept inside to discover...

His bed made, his dishes washed, his trash dumped, his newspapers stacked, his ironing board folded and a brand new set of drapes installed over his living room window.

Oh yes ... there was a note, too. It was written with a purple felt pen and said: "Dear Sir, I hope you don't mind. I cleaned your house. Don't worry. I won't take anything because my father is a Duke in Spain. Don't worry. I'll clean your house as long as you live here."

The note was signed, "Prince Eddie".

Police doubt very much that Prince Eddie will make good on his promise to break in and clean up again, but the unidentified "victim" is leaving the vacuum cleaner and the Windex in the middle of the living room, just in case.

And, while most people think the high cost of dying is 'way out of whack, some folks don't think funerals cost enough. Philip Miuccio of Daytona Beach, Florida, for one. Phil has just announced his interment plans - he's having a $30,000 marble mausoleum built, complete with bulletproof amber windows.

Sure, 30 grand is a lot of money for an Eternity Hutch, but this one has to be fairly roomy - big enough to contain the bodies of Phil, his wife...

And their DeLorean sports car.

"It's a little strange, having the car in there with us" admits wife Anne, "but I don't think I'll mind."

Gee, Anne, I don't think the car is nearly as strange as some of Phil's other ideas.

Like bulletproof windows.

Why any kind of windows in a mausoleum? Does Phil think the road to heaven is paved with radar traps?

spuds 'n suds

Meanwhile, back in the land of living, it is turning out to be a dog's life for Mister MacKenzie. Spuds MacKenzie that is, the be-shinered bull terrier with a face only a mother (or Don Cherry) could love. You may have seen Spuds shilling for a brand of beer on your TV set? Well, that campaign has spawned a whole mess of trouble for Spuds. First, his sponsors had to churn out dozens of press releases insisting that Spuds does not belong to the dreaded Pit Bull category of Caninedom. (They're right. Spuds pedigree is about as close to a Pit Bulls as Elsie the Cow's is to a Spanish Toro.) Then, Spuds got busted in Ohio for impersonating Santa Claus. Seems there's an ad in which Spuds, dressed in a red suit, is featured with a sack of frosty beer cans clutched in his, well, paw. That's a no-no in Ohio where Saint Nick is not allowed to appear in any promotions for booze.

Turns out that if Spuds is guilty of anything, it's probably transvestism. Good old, beer swilling, macho Spuds, you see, is actually a she.

It remains to be seen if the jock world of beer drinkers is ready to embrace a four-footed Jockette named, not Spuds, but Miss Honey Tree Evil Eye. (No kidding.)

Let me leave you with a Gladysnot. Gladysnots are little examples that Life throws up from time to time to make us thankful for our lot in life. You, for example, can be 'gladysnot':

Head Coach of the Los Angeles Kings.

In charge of a Polling Booth in Port au Prince.

An old flame of Jessica Hahn's.

You can also be exceedingly 'gladysnot' Evelyn Mosely of Cadiz, Kentucky, who last week suffered what may well be the most humiliating accident in the annals of Kentucky traffic violations.

Evelyn, you see, was struck by a speeding outhouse.

She just happened to be at the wrong place in downtown Cadiz as the Trigg County Ham Festival Parade went by. Four men pushing a wheeled privy (they know how to have a fun time in Cadiz) lost control of it. The rogue outhouse whizzed down the street, jumped a curb and flew into the parking lot where it sought out Evelyn Mosely and ran her down.

She's in hospital and recovering nicely.

Aren't you gladysnot Evelyn Mosely?

Don't you feel better about yourself already?

Federation of Ontario Naturalists

When you see this column in your local paper under the heading the Federation of Ontario Naturalists, you may wonder who and what we are. The FON is a non-profit organization devoted to conservation and public education. It is province-wide, having 70 affiliated clubs stretching from Thunder Bay to Kirkland Lake and London to Ottawa.

As the provincial centre for a number of local groups, the FON can speak with a stronger voice than a single club, but the FON is dependent for its strength on the support and information provided by those clubs. These naturalists clubs are, like the FON, devoted to a study of natural history and to conservation. Some clubs have actually intervened to protect threatened natural areas by purchasing them as nature reserves.

If you are interested in learning more about natural history, or in sharing activities and information with people of like interests, then membership in one of these clubs will interest you. So that you will have some idea about what the various clubs do, here is some information gleaned from their newsletters and correspondence.

The Hamilton and St. Catharines clubs have participated in raptor release and monitoring, working with the Ministry of Natural Resources. Hamilton has been involved in the bald eagle release program, and St. Catharines in the peregrine falcon release program.

Several clubs have set up bluebird nesting boxes and monitored nesting success. The bluebird, once a common and lovely sight in southern Ontario, had, by the late 1950's all but disappeared from much of its former range. Its usual nesting sites were disappearing. A hole nester it lost nesting places as metal fence posts replaced wooden ones and snags and dead trees were

Minden bird count brings exciting finds

Warm early-winter weather contributed one of the most exciting finds in this year's Minden Christmas Bird Count as a Harlequin Duck and a Ruddy Duck were noticed on Gull Lake.

Another unique find in the December 19 bird count was a Brown Thrasher, which had apparently been taking advantage of a bird feeder kept by Ed Pettinger.

Dennis Barry, who led this 21st annual bird count, said these three species are new to the count. "The Ruddy Duck and the Harlequin Duck are rarely recorded on Christmas counts anywhere in Ontario," he said. "To have both on the same count, especially away from the Great Lakes or the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Rivers is amazing."

At least one Brown Thrasher has been recorded in Haliburton County in the winter, but never during the Christmas count.

The first Christmas bird count started 88 years earlier by an intrepid group of strollers in 25 locations. This year there were more than 1,500 such counts across North America, involving over 41,000 people.

All the information collected in these counts is compiled in an annual book published by the National Audubon Society. The information helps detect trends in populations of the many species and is used in many studies.

This year there were 14 people involved in the Minden count, and because of the mild weather, one group was able to spend most of the day paddling a canoe on Gull Lake and Gull River. They covered a distance of 25 kilometres, which is a record in itself.

Recording a total of 41 species of birds during the day in the Minden area, this was the second best year in the 22-year history of the count. In total, the group counted 2,495 birds.

The following is a list of the species and their numbers counted on December 19 in Minden:

Common Loon 1, American Black Duck 18, Mallard 9, Common Goldeneye 19, Hooded Merganser 4, Common Merganser 31, Ruddy Duck 1, Harlequin Duck 1, Northern Goshawk 1, Red-tailed Hawk 1, Ruffed Grouse 12, Herring Gull 7, rock

Decision should be made

When this series of events has taken place, we basically shall be a captive nation. Without some economic independence, we shall have very little political independence. That will be the time when Canadians will see that they really are no longer a separate country. It will also be the time when we shall want a better deal. Canada will plead to become part of the U.S. for a better standard of living.

could rely on fellow Americans not shafting fellow citizens. Then, we keep our industry and our standard of living and simply change citizenship.

The bottom line is that the free trade deal negotiated by our government is not good for a country which wants to remain independent. The longer the trade deal is in force, the more our industrial base will be depleted. If we stop the deal early, we can continue to be an independent country. If we hesitate and do nothing, then we shall be lost.

The conclusion is that either we stop the deal now or we make an immediate decision to become Americans. Personally, I want to be a Canadian.

Times increase lead; Hartwick streak broken

With its second important win in as many weeks, The Times has all but clinched first place in the Minden Men's Recreational Hockey League.

Hartwick Construction's seven-game winning streak came to an abrupt halt last Monday night when The Times dealt out a 9-7 loss. The win gives The Times a two-game lead over second-place Halls Insurance and drops Hartwick back into third place in the standings.

In other games Monday, Home Hardwere notched its second win of the season over Vasey Real Estate, while Halls held onto second place with a win over the Rockcliffe.

With just three games left in the season, The Times can almost coast to a first place finish. It looks like the real struggle will be between Halls and Hartwick for the second spot. Although Halls has a game lead, Hartwick has an easier lineup of games in the remainder of the schedule.

Times 9, Hartwick 8
Unable to control the scoring abilities of Jeff Howe, Hartwick took its first loss in eight weeks with Howe notching five of The Times' goals.

Although Hartwick's top goal scorers Dave Hartwick and Brian Shaw scored twice each, this was a relatively low-scoring game for them. Other Hartwick goals were scored by Bart Hilhorst, Royce Miller, Larry Sawyer and Irwin Asbell.

Andy Campbell, Sid MacKeigan, John McAdam and Ted Vasey each contributed one goal to The Times' win.

Halls 9, Rockcliffe 3
Regaining sole possession of second place in the standings, Halls fought off the Rockcliffe challenge to come out on top of the 9-3 score.

John Barkwell pumped in four of the Halls' goals, while Barry Boice added another three in the winning effort. Tom Haley and Scot Radcliffe each scored once for Halls.

Rockcliffe's goals were scored by Lawrence Lougheed, Al Cunningham and John Fedeski.

Home 10, Vasey 8

A five-goal night by Vasey's Kevin Hamilton was not enough to carry his team to victory as they dropped a 10-8 decision to Home in the final game of the night. The loss drops Vasey back into a last place tie with Home.

Scott Hamilton and Greg Carpenter were the top goal scorers for Home, each earning a hat-trick. Doug Schell added two to the win while Peter Walker and Ben Manuge each scored one.

Other goalscorers for Vasey were Daryl Ward (2) and Norm Barry.

Tonight's action sees Halls take on Home at 7 p.m. Vasey challenges Hartwick at 8:30 p.m., and Home meets the Rockcliffe at 10 p.m.

removed. Often remaining holes were usurped by more aggressive birds like the starling.

Attempts to restore nesting sites by putting up nesting boxes have been rewarded. The Kitchener-Waterloo Club has had some success with boxes they have set out. Their interest in bluebirds has drawn them into a struggle over the proposed route of a highway extension which would cut right through a bluebird nesting area.

Environmental concerns vary depending on the club's location. Forestry is a northern concern and the Thunder Bay Club newsletter contains an excellent article on the spruce budworm. The article points out that cyclical rises and falls in the spruce bud-worm population can be traced back over 200 years. The budworm has always been part of the development of northern forests. The club's analysis of the article points out that, foresters, knowing the cyclical pattern of budworm population explosions, and that the budworm's favourite food is balsam fir, a species which grows up quickly in cut areas, should be able to minimize budworm damage by proper forest management.

All the clubs offer full programs of which include speakers and natural history outings.

If you are curious about nature and are interested in doing something positive to preserve it, contact the club in your area, the Kawartha Field Naturalists in Lindsay.

Focus on the future

by Bill Scott, M.P.

As we begin a new year, it is always a good time to reflect upon the past. By doing so we can see the future more clearly and focus our hopes and efforts.

A total of 1,042,000 jobs have been created since September 1984, an average of 27,421 per month. In contrast, only 424,000 jobs were created between the February 1980 and September 1984 elections, an average of 7,709 per month. 86% of those jobs are full-time. In contrast, 80% of the jobs created under the Liberals were part-time.

A total of 573,000 jobs have been created for women.

The unemployment rate has fallen from 11.7% in September 1984 to 8.2% in November 1987, the lowest rate of unemployment since November 1981. The youth rate has fallen from 18.3% to 13.3%.

Between 1984 and 1986, more jobs were created in Canada than in either France, Germany, Italy or the United Kingdom - countries that each have more than twice our population.

Pee Wee A Tournament

The Minden Pee Wee A Monarchs captured first place in their own tournament at the Minden arena last Saturday with three impressive wins.

The Monarchs posted an upset win over Little Britain in the final game of the six-team tournament to take the championship trophy, sponsored by the Minden Rotary Club. Rotary President Peter Bennett delivered the trophy to team captain Corbie Kent after the Monarchs beat Little Britain 3 - 1.

Little Britain was the runner up on the championship side and was awarded the trophy donated by the Holliday-Rhodes family.

... an exciting consolation championship match. Bracebridge edged Ops 3-4 in a shoot-off. The teams had tied 4-4 after three periods of play, and an overtime period failed to break the deadlock. Therefore, the final shoot-off was necessary. Bracebridge came out on top to win the Consolation Championship Trophy sponsored by the Rotary Club. Consolation finalists Ops won the trophy sponsored by Highlands Jewellery and China Shoppe.

Minden had to win its three games to take the championship. The Monarchs beat Fenelon Falls 6-0 in their opening game. They beat Beaverton 2-1 in the second game and Little Britain 3-1 in the final.

Jason Klett scored three goals in the first game, while Derek Janke, Phil Boyle and Chad Connelly each Mush!

Winning the Minden Sled Dog Derby is becoming somewhat of a habit with Terri Killam.

A feat run by her eight-dog team in the Sunday event pushed the Massachusetts musher ahead of Quebec's Wilson Levesque to take first place for the second year in a row. She also repeated her second-place performance in the four-dog event, finishing behind Denis Durand.

This was the fourth running of the Minden Sled Dog, sponsored by Martin Pet Foods of Elmira. And on all accounts it was the most successful running to date.

Crowds were lined up along Main Street, where the races start and finish, for more than a mile. Improved promotion prior to the races, along with the great weather, Below: Speed is the name of the game in sled dog racing. This team was almost too fast for our cameras.

Thousands 'catch the drift'

drew thousands of people to town for both days of the event.

Probably the most visible members of the gallery were 90 representatives of Martins, who made the trip to Minden to view the sensational event. Clad in blue coveralls, the Elmira group helped cheer the racers and dogs along the course, including a few of their own hometown teams.

With the purse being increased to $10,000 this time around, there was a significant increase in the number of competitors. And with the outstanding organization this year, the entire race ran smoothly and on time.

The following are the top 15 finishers in each of the four and eight dog events:

rate has fallen by 3.63 percentage points to 8.75%. The Chartered Bank Prime Rate has fallen by 3 1/4 percentage points to 9 3/4%. For a small business with an interest rate based on prime plus a fixed number of percentage points, this means an annual saving of almost $1,000 for each $31,000 of debt. The rate on five-year mortgages has fallen by 2 3/4 percentage points to 11 1/2%, a saving of $92 per month on a $50,000 mortgage. The rate on five-year Farm Credit Corporation loans has fallen by 2 percentage points to 12%. The deficit has fallen from a record $38.3 billion in the 1984 - 85 fiscal year to a projected $29.3 billion this year. This will be the first consecutive three-year decline in the deficit in three decades.

During the four-year period ending in fiscal 1984 - 85, spending grew by an average of 15% per year. This has been cut to an average of 4%.

Among the Group of Seven (G-7) countries, Canada again showed the strongest growth (4.5%) in the first half of 1987, after growing more rapidly than the other major industrialized countries in 1986. The Canadian economy grew by 1.1% in the third quarter of this year, the equivalent of an annual growth rate of 4.3%. The number of Canadians living below the poverty line has fallen by 525,000, including 193,000 fewer children, and 41,000 fewer senior citizens. After adjusting for inflation, average family income rose by $1,635 in real terms between 1984 and 1986.

Housing starts in November 1987 were at a "seasonally adjusted at annual rates" level of 233,000, an increase of 65% since September 1984. Housing starts last year were at their highest level in eight years.

Consumer spending is rising, and that is good news for small businesses, manufacturers and the unemployed. Retail sales have increased by 32% since the election.

The inflation rate (CPI) has been in the 4% range for three years, the most stable price environment since 1971.

Realized net farm income increased by 27% last year. This was partly the result of increased direct government payments and lower expenses.

On behalf of my family, my staff in Lindsay, Marie and Lloyd, and in Ottawa, Don, Judy and Sally, I wish everyone all of life's blessings in the New Year.

Well before the snow started flying in the Highlands, members of the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association were out building bridges, clearing trails and replacing signs. This is the sort of work that makes it necessary for the club to charge a fee for snowmobilers to ride the seemingly endless miles of trails in the county.

News from Staansworth Court

Hi, dear folks, we hope the season of celebrating Christmas has found one and all, happy, healthy and blessed to know that it was the Christ Child, the Reason for the Season.

Welcome to our new residents, Corinne Bonneville and Fern and Bill Donnelly. Trust you will enjoy our friendliness and we may enjoy yours.

Through this beautiful Christmas season we were entertained by the Carollers of the United Church who sang sweetly those beautiful Christmas carols. Linda Pawluch favored us with her solo on the French horn. We thank you and keep coming, ladies, when you can.

The young people, their pastor, Douglas Kent and his wife, of Minden Fellowship Church, sang those lovely carols, about the blessed Christ child. The children sang so well and we enjoyed you all. Come again.

Eleanor Pye, Melissa Hampson and Marg Horsley enjoyed the Christmas party prepared by Stanhope Firefighters for the children of the district and the Seniors.

So nice to see Edna Smith and Mary and Alex Stevenson, former residents of Staansworth Court.

We thank the group for furnishing transportation for us. Thank you Mr. Moore, driver of the van.

Our Christmas party proved very enjoyable. Our directors and wives, Santa (Mr. Payne) and residents were favored with music prepared by Shirley Colliss and her choir from Minden United Church. They were accompanied by Norma Barron on the piano. We were so pleased to hear Mrs. Coburn, as she sang, "He shall feed his flock" from the music Messiah. We do appreciate our evening with you and your music. Gifts were exchanged and goodies were enjoyed. Everyone retired with the familiar words Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Sincere birthday wishes go out to Vivian Anderson, Marg Horsley, Mabel Trodd and John Mielonen, our December birthday folks. (They say we are getting old when we stop looking forward to our next birthday.) What do you think?

Thought for the young, as given by a young motorcycle friend - If you wish to be eligible for the trophy at the end of the race, we must sign in. Jimmy applies this in his life's race.

Some of our residents have had to have hospital care, Henry Howe, Ernie Anderson, Eleanor Ferris, Doris Foster and George Davidson (who is still in Civic Hospital, Peterborough) May you all have better health in 1988.

We are sorry to hear of the death of Jimmy Swanton, grandson of Vivian and Ernie Anderson.

Oh, yes, despite illness and folks visiting New Year's Eve proved very pleasant as we played euchre and enjoyed goodies, and wished each other a Happy New Year for 1988, as we sang Auld Lang Syne in the good old Scottish way.

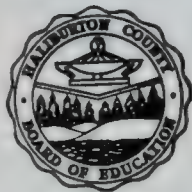

To all of you, we too wish you the things in life, that bring true joy your way and a beautiful awareness of the blessings of each day in 1988.

Now that activities are slowing down, and times are getting back to normal, I am thinking of the Newfie who was struck by a car and was hospitalized. His friend called on him and asked if he was feeling back to normal. "No," he said, "but I'm back the way I used to be."

So, dear readers, I believe this applies so well to us; we are getting back to what we used to be whatever!!

Love to all in 1988.
M.H.

Large print books always available

One of the lesser-known services of the Haliburton County Public Library is the large print book collection which has been developing over the past few years. All of the nine branches of the system have at least a small number of these materials; a deposit collection is maintained in Hyland Crest Nursing Home.

The materials cover the whole spectrum from adventure to westerns to mysteries; from romances to humour and all around the circle. However, for the first time a catalogue listing the holdings of the system has been prepared and may be consulted at any Branch.

In making the announcement, Joel Levis,

County Librarian indicated that "the presence of the catalogue means that we can identify all of the titles in our collection and bring them to the patron wherever they may be." Designed to be updated as the collection is enlarged, the print is itself approximately the same size as the print in the books. "Thus", he continued, "if you can read the catalogue, you can read the book".

Materials in this format are ideal for those who are unable to read regular print but still want to enjoy the world of reading.

Just another example of how the Haliburton County Public Library continues to provide you with the best possible public library services.

Footprints in time

by Joan M. Hoad

The Christmas Holidays are often a time of rest from artistic endeavours, (except in the kitchen!), but also, they are a special time of enjoying and sharing the fruits of our own arts and crafts, with our gifts, our decorations and our food.

I have been thinking about the Rails' End Gallery a great deal lately; of all the tremendous efforts the Guild of Fine Arts makes to maintain the Gallery in Haliburton County and what it has meant to all the population.

I thought today, of the competition we initiated three or four years ago, requiring a letter stating what the Guild meant to the writer and of the winning letter. Shirley Hodgson won the contest and one memorable phrase from her letter was that our arts and crafts were something tangible and precious to hand on to our children.

Extending her idea further it is, of course, the discoveries of art and crafts from past civilizations which have contributed so much to our picture of the peoples who lived on our planet so long ago.

Who can read of the opening of Tutankhamen's tomb in Egypt, without feeling the drama of looking at a moment of life so far away and so very long ago. Those beautiful furnishings, artifacts and murals, painted, woven, thrown and carved with such elegance and fidelity, tell us so much. They speak to our heads and our hearts.

We can marvel at the exquisite economy of line in the Petroglyphs. We can wonder at the delicate hand-made, miniature 'Books of Hours' which were commissioned by wealthy nobles during the Middle Ages. They were little prayer books and opposite every page we can see pictures recording Medieval life; peasants working in the fields or vineyards outside the castle walls; others depicting life inside the castle with groaning boards and lords and ladies in rich robes trimmed with ermine and beaver, selecting a dainty morsel from the table.

To actually see the fine linens and tapestries that were woven then; the many different pottery vessels, (utilitarian or wildly decorative); the fine jewellery and metal pieces ... What a wealth of stories they all tell us.

Art and Crafts are some of our most important footprints in time. We are privileged to be able to follow these imaginative and often daring men and women from the past, in our own humble way. Whether we are hobbyists or professionals, ours is an honourable and ancient calling.

Art Galleries are the vehicles which enable the public to keep in touch with past and present artistic output, in all its infinite variety. They stretch our imagination, inspire us to strive for excellence, help us to appreciate and discriminate in the artistic field. Above all, Art Galleries stimulate and stir up that sometimes lazy, right side of our brain and help us all to be more caring and perceptive in a very technological and robotic world.

We are lucky the county that has such an outlet on its doorstep to encourage and enlighten its children and its adults with these delights!

A very happy New Year to the volunteers and friends of the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts, who have worked so long and so faithfully to support the Rails' End Gallery and the Guild, for the benefit of us all.

Come to the Gallery on Wednesday, January 13, for a musical evening, hosted by the Guild Choir. Newcomers to the area are most welcome. Looking forward to seeing you here.

Happy New Year everyone!

Now spring is just around the corner again.

The service in the chapel Sunday evening was by Rev. J. Burgess and on Tuesday morning by Rev. George Elliott.

The last movie we had was "The Man Who Loved Bears", "Secrets of the Underwater World".

Sorry to report the passing Edith Welch, our sympathy is extended to her family and friends. She is certainly missed at Hyland Crest.

Mrs. Lola Prentice has been quite ill since Christmas, but I understand she is some better today. Edna Cowan has been visiting her family since Christmas and Dora Dawson spent Christmas and the weekend with her friend Isabel Gibbs at Maple Lake.

We at Hyland Crest were saddened by the news that Mr. Fred Ballard had passed away. He played the organ for our church services for quite some time and we miss him. Our sympathy goes to his family and many friends.

We had a real nice Thursday afternoon tea party in the holiday week, put on by the kitchen and activity staff. One lady was heard to remark it was the nicest party we ever had but I believe they are all nice and very enjoyable.

Winnie Barnum had Christmas with her family in Haliburton. Her grandson called on her Saturday. He was the referee for the hockey games in Minden. I was with my daughter Anna and her family for Christmas at Four Mile Lake. Santa was very generous this time. I haven't heard who all was out or in over the holidays, perhaps it will be better next time.

B sharp in the morning and never B flat, B ware most of all that you never B that. B of of these things and whatever B fall, B sure you'll be happy and B loved by us all.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank my family and friends for the flowers and cards I received during my stay in hospital. Special thanks to Dr. Watt and Dr. Baeta and Dr. Moga and special thanks to nurse Bev Box for being so kind.

IN MEMORIAM

FULLER: Audrey - in memory of a dear friend who left us one year ago.

Time has passed, life goes on, but we will always remember we had a friend like her.

Love always,

Sherman and Mary Irwin.

JOHNSTON: In loving memory of our two brothers Alvin Carl who died accidentally January 16, 1964 and Myles Ellwood who was killed October 11, 1968.

Though tears in our eyes do not glisten
Our faces not always sad.
There is never a night or morning
We don't think of the brothers we had
Not a day do we forget you
In our hearts you are always here
For we loved you and we miss you
As it ends another year.

Sadly missed, lovingly remembered by brothers and sisters.

JOHNSTON: In loving memory of two dear sons, Alvin Carl who died accidentally January 16, 1964 and Myles Ellwood who was killed October 11, 1968.

They are away, yet ever near
Their presence fill each day.
Their voice and smile are everywhere
A memory away.
And though they are no longer seen
By family and friends.
They live for they are dearly loved
And love can never end.

Deeply loved and sadly missed by Mom.
